

Lead Rope & Quickdraw Waiver:

I acknowledge that lead climbing has more inherent extreme risks than top roping and one of the dangers could be that a rope is damaged. I understand that climbing ropes are damaged each time I fall on them and that they need to be inspected periodically. I understand that by using my own rope while lead climbing at Upper Limits, I am also assuming responsibility for the rope's condition. I confirm that I know how to properly care for and inspect the rope I use. I will inspect the rope I use each time before climbing at Upper Limits and I affirm that upon each visit, it is in safe condition for climbing that day. If there is any failure of the rope I use, it is my own fault and Upper Limits assumes no responsibility for damage or personal injury that may occur including paralysis or death. All ropes used indoors at Upper Limits must be dynamic, 9.7mm or larger, and at least 100 feet in length. I will not use any personal equipment, such as carabineers or quickdraws, on Upper Limits' walls.
